CERTIFICATE OF CONTINUED BUILDING COMPLIANCE

Explanation and Instructions

As per the revised Property Maintenance Ordinance adopted by the Township Council and effective since January 1, 2010, “No owner, agent, realtor or broker, firm, company, partnership, corporation, or any other person shall sell, rent, re-rent, transfer, lease, let, mortgage with right of occupancy, allow re-occupancy, or otherwise dispose of ownership, any structure or dwelling unit until either a Certificate of Continued Building Compliance or a Temporary Certificate of Continued Building Compliance has been issued by the Township...” (§ 183-19 A.) At present, this ordinance only applies to non-residential structures.

The purpose of this ordinance is to identify and correct any outstanding and obvious code violations or life-safety issues on a property, or portion thereof, before a new owner or tenant takes possession of or occupies it. This is accomplished through an inspection conducted by the Township.

The responsibility for scheduling the inspection and obtaining the certificate falls upon the current owner of the property. The application with the required paperwork and fee are submitted to the Construction Office. Please be certain to fill out the application completely, as missing information can holdup the processing of it. Note: The “owner” is the property owner and the “occupant/use information” is for the current or last occupant/use – not the new or proposed one. (The new occupant/use will be required to receive Zoning approval separately and to obtain Construction Permits for any work that requires them.)

Once your application has been received and deemed complete, it will be sent to the Zoning Officer for verification that the current use complies with Zoning regulations. Upon his approval, the owner or applicant will be contacted to set up the inspection. It is important to set up the inspection on a day that someone can and will be present at the site to meet the inspector. Specific instructions will be given when the inspection is actually being scheduled.
